

COUNTDOWN TO OBAMA'S REMOVAL

LYNDON LAROUCHE INTERNATIONAL WEBCAST

OCTOBER 19
 8PM EDT / 5PM PDT

Lyndon LaRouche will be delivering a live international webcast this coming Friday, October 19th at 8PM on www.LaRouchePAC.com. This broadcast is the third in a series of such live webcasts which Mr. LaRouche has scheduled weekly for every Friday leading into the decisive November election. The indispensable factor for survival in the crucial next three weeks is the leadership that Lyndon LaRouche has proven himself to be uniquely equipped to provide.

The credit for the current downfall of Obama belongs uniquely to that very leadership of Lyndon LaRouche. Since he first identified Obama as a dangerous narcissistic killer in the image of Emperor Nero during a live webcast on April 11, 2009, the LaRouche movement has sustained an uncompromising campaign to constitutionally remove Obama from office. As a result of the LaRouche movement's unique leadership role over the past four years, the conditions for Obama's removal from office now exist, and not a moment too soon.

From "Benghazi-gate" to the current evidence surfacing in the campaign-funding scandal in which illegal foreign funds — including drug money — were funneled into Obama's campaigns by George Soros and others, the walls are now closing in around the Obama administration. LaRouche has identified

Obama as a mass murderer for his drone assassinations and illegal wars, starting with Libya, and has continued to warn that the world teeters on the edge of thermonuclear extinction as long as Obama remains in power. Only through the efforts of General Martin Dempsey and others in the highest level of the US military command, has the world avoided a general thermonuclear war — a threat which still looms ever closer as the Presidential election contest enters its final days.

Flashpoints for general war continue to proliferate across the planet. Events on the Turkish-Syrian border currently threaten to escalate rapidly into a WWII scenario. After a decision last week by the Turkish government to force down an airplane carrying official Russian government personnel, the Turkish Army has further escalated the potential conflict by moving heavy artillery and tanks to the Syrian border. NATO has developed contingency plans to step in to aid Turkey in the event of a full-scale border war. With NATO aligned on one side and Russia on the other, such an intervention would rapidly escalate to the level of global war, with all its thermonuclear implications. Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov has called upon the Turkish and Syrian militaries to establish hot-line communications to avoid the outbreak of fullscale war, and the new UN Special Envoy for Syria, Brahimi, is devising plans for a 3,000-person peacekeeping force. And, simultaneously with the danger of an explosion in Southwest Asia, there are forces attempting to provoke a new war between Japan and China over territorial disputes in the South China Sea. Such a conflict would also draw in the United States, via mutual defense treaties between Washington and Tokyo that have been in place since the 1960s. With the current array of forces positioned in strategic zones worldwide, as in the case of the “Guns of August” before WWI, any conflict triggered on the planet right now has the potential of mushrooming into a global war of total extinction.

The next three weeks will be decisive in determining the survival of humanity. Since the public display of Obama’s true personality during his first debate with Romney, the illusion of “certain victory” for the Obama campaign has increasingly melted away. The removal of Obama is still by no means guaranteed, and the campaign to bring him down must continue to be pursued with unabated force. However, as Lyndon LaRouche has emphasized during the first two of his ongoing series of live webcasts, the removal of Obama is only the crucial first step. If party politics continues to control the policies of the Presidency, the measures necessary for a recovery of the United States will not be possible. The plague of political partisanship has been what’s ruined the country progressively for over the past two hundred years, and it will only be by destroying the party system and creating a Presidency that stands for the nation — not for one or another team or faction — willing to implement the needed recovery program to reverse the current hyperinflationary collapse, that the United States could be saved. Qualified personnel which represent the best of both parties, together with those in the military who stand outside of partisanship altogether, will be selected for the purpose of creating a Presidency for all Americans, free from control by London and allied interests, and devoted to reorganizing the entire system.

Three steps are necessary:

- 1) Restore Glass-Steagall, cancelling the existing bailouts and protecting the necessary commercial banking functions,
- 2) Return to National Banking, funding the recovery by re-establishing the Constitutional system of federal credit, and
- 3) Build NAWAPA and related great projects, employing millions of skilled productive workers and restoring the sense of future mission which the nation has lost since the assassination of John Kennedy. Only by means of these three steps, initiated by a post-Obama non-partisan Presidency, can the United States and the world possibly survive.

Tune in this Friday at 8pm for the third in an ongoing series of live internet broadcasts by Lyndon LaRouche on www.LaRouchePAC.com
